

Exorcism: Another Vision

Guy Vander Linden has developed a particular view of the world after two near-death experiences. Moreover, he had a remarkable ability to free wandering souls from occupying places, objects and people. After years of experience in this field, the author wrote this book to show that things can be different. Anyone can be involuntarily possessed by entities, but sometimes occupying the soul may also be desirable. That is evident from the case studies, which the author made about wandering, aggressive or even gentle souls that were brought to the light. Guy Vander Linden (Nederzwalm- Hermelgem, 1944) experienced his first near-death experience at the age of twelve, and his second in 1990. His life was given a different turn because of these two experiences. He said goodbye to the political and trade union life and focused on the guidance of people who had near-death experiences and bereavements. The author was the founder and former president of the Limen/IANDS Flanders association.
