

The Bolo Book (Classic Reprint)

Preface. The songs in this book were written on a number of occasions, extending over several years. The Editors are not responsible for all of them; nor are they even able in all cases rightly to apportion the responsibility. Mr. M. B. Reckitt admits his authorship of two of the songs from The Homeland of Mystery an A Il-R ed Revue in which he, as well as the Editor, sustained an arduous part. In some of the other songs, responsibility would have to be apportioned almost line by line an essay in the Higher Criticism which the Editors do not propose to make. The pronunciation of proper names in foreign languages has been throughout treated with that liberty which is the Briton shheritance. A few of the verses have already appeared in The Guildsman, The Communist and The Daily Herald. Most of them are meant to be sung as well as read. Considerations of price forbid for the moment the publication of the music, but the Editors trust that the tunes which occurred to them are sufficiently well-known to place no difflculty in the way of Glee Clubs or other bodies which may desire to perform them. There is no fee for performance. G. D. H. C. M. I.
