

Americas Medical Industry: The Good, the Bad, and the Deadly (Number 25 in a series of 30 Defrauding America books.)

The information provided within these pages describes information on pockets of misconduct in Americas medical industry that, if known, can make the difference between a satisfactory medical treatment or a medical tragedy. The information provides an insight into why over a 100,000 people die in hospitals every year, besides an unknown number in other medical offices. The unpunished medical misconduct is an indictment of a nation, followed by another American culture: cover-up.
